Capitol Hill "Thoroughfares." To the Editor of The Star:

First street northeast, from B street to East Capitol street, has been cut off nearly a year by the crust falling upon the railroad tunnel, and a barricade parallel with the trolley rails reduces the street onehalf, while a new building, with material around it, nearly completes the stoppage of 1st street toward the Congressional Library. The miserable street lights add to the obscuration of people who would go to the library at night. We would ask if the trolley company is to leave 1st street in this condition all winter. Also, if any ave-nue safe to walk at night, is to be provided for, between the basin of the city and Capitol Hill, after the two great Chambers' blocks and the Depot plaza make a country gap of more than half a mile across the brow of Capitol Hill? Lost Schooner Known Here.

The big four-masted schooner Merom. which is reported to have been lost at Bonaire, Curacao, Dutch West Indies, was well known in this city, having been here aboard from the Maine fields. The vessel is said to have been valued at about $45,000. The details of the disaster are lack-ing, but it is thought that the ship was caught in the recent tropical hurricane in the West Indies and was driven ashore. The vessel was commanded by Capt. J. P. Williams of Portland, Me., and whether he and his crew were lost in the wreck is not known. The Merom was at Curacas for a cargo of salt and may have been lying in port when the disaster happened. She was a vessel of more than a thousand tons bur-

IN ATTORNEY'S OPINION

HANOVER PLACE STATUS DEFIN-

ED BY CORPORATION COUNSEL. The much-discussed question of whether or not Hanover place northwest is a street, alley or minor street was settled today when Corporation Counsel Thomas of the District, in an opinion forwarded to the Commissioners, held that it is a street. This question concerning the status of Hanover place arose several months ago when a number of residents and property owners on it protested against a stable their lives.
Sergt. Dean was told that the high water recently erected by Edward Chapman, declaring that it was built within twenty feet of a residence without the owner's consent, in violation of the building regulations. At a hearing upon the subject before the Commissioners about a month ago attorneys for Mr. Chapman contended that Hanover place was not a street, but an alley, and the twenty-foot building regulation did not therefore apply to the stable in question, and it was for the purpose of reaching a conclusion as to the legal phases in the case that the Commissioners sought the opinion of the corporation counsel. After deciding the question about this street Mr. Thomas in his opinion stated that if a remedy of the situation is desired, the Commissioners may require proceedings to be instituted in the Police Court against Mr. Chapman under section 195 of the Dis-trict building regulations, and they may also institute proceedings in equity to have the use of the structure as a stable prohibited. By these methods he declares a judicial determination can be had of the question, and in order that it may be settled at an early date he suggested a proceeding in the Police Court.

If the latter suggestion is carried out by the Commissioners Mr. Chapman will be prosecuted upon a charge of violating the building regulations, and, according to officials of the building department, if he is found guilty a daily fine will be imposed upon him by the court until the condition complained of is remedied to the District's satisfaction.

Building Permit Refused.

When it was found that Mr. Chapman in constructing his stable on Hanover place had not complied with the building regulations, in that his building was within fifteen feet of the nearest dwelling, complaints were sent to the Commissioners' office. Then Mr. Chapman applied for a permit to build an addition to his stable. but this, it is said, was refused by Building Inspector Ashford because he falled to comply with the regulations in his first building. A public hearing was held and the Commissioners heard all the complaints about the stable, as well as Mr. Chapman's repeated denials that his building was a nuisance as claimed, and that it was constructed in violation of regulations.

In determining the legal status of Han-over place, Corporation Counsel Thomas stated that it was dedicated to the District in 1889 by Lorin M. Saunders and Carrie C. Griffin and was placed on the District plats as a real street. It extends from North Capitol street to the alley in the middle of the square; it is sixty feet in width and is almost entirely built up with sidewalks on each side, eight feet in width, with an improved roadway twentyfour feet wide. All work done on this street, such as improvements and repairs, has been paid for by the District out of the general unds for repairs to streets.

The request of Mr. Chapman for a permit to build an addition to his stable, which was refused by the building inspector, was also dealt with in the opinion of the corporation counsel. He held that if the proposed addition is built in accordance with the laws prescribed by the building regulations the permit should be grant-

This opinion of the corporation counsel was referred to Col. Biddle, the Engineer Commissioner, and it will be upon his recom-mendation that the Commissioners base their action to dispose of this case.

TUG SUFFERS NO DAMAGE.

Boat Driven Into Current, but is Anchored in Safe Position.

Sergt. Russell A. Dean, pilot of the police ooat, went out upon the Highway bridge vesterday morning before daylight to see if he could ascertain anything about the seagoing tug Sea King that had left the wharf of J. Maury Dove and drifted down the river, with two men aboard, as stated in The Sunday Star. He saw the boat anchored about 800 yards west of the bridge, in a safe position. William Clements and Frank Rogansky, members of the crew of the tug, had reported to the police that the boat had left the wharf after the hawser had parted, and they feared Capt. Frank and Assistant Engineer Johnson, who were aboard the tug, were in danger of losing and swift current had caused the accident, and that a number of accidents happened to the boat soon after the start down the swift stream was made. The bow of the boat struck against some rocks in front of the home of the Analostan Boat Club, and when the craft swung around her side came in contact with the obstruction. At the wharf of Littlefield & Alvord the Sea King struck against a barge, and a short distance from there a collision occurred with the rovernment boat Gen. Warren. It was believed that the tug had been disabled, and that the two men aboard would go down with the craft, and it was because of the fears that were entertained that the colice were asked to assist in the search for the boat. Sergt. Dean remained on the bridge yesterday morning long enough to become satisfied that the tug was in no langer of sinking. There had been no distress signals displayed, and the lights on the boat were in proper positions. After daybreak the boat steamed back to the wharf, and the men aboard told the story of their experience They were asleep when the hawser parted, and the boat was drifting down stream when they were awakened. Anchor was dropped as quickly as possible, and the men

James | Carl Doney at Hamline Methodist Church yesterday morning at the 11 o'clock service. The pastor declared that the liquor traffic is a curse.

Rev. Mr. Doney said that the sane minds of the American people realize that the liquor traffic is an immeasurable curse, and that economically, socially and religiously the traffic has nothing to offer which is not overbalanced by a hundredfold evil. "In the face of this conviction," the min ister added, "there arises the practical question, 'What should be done to destroy The speaker went on to say that ordinary wisdom, patriotism and morals will seek for legal measures which will repress the sale of liquor everywhere. "Free from Pharisaism, the people should declare the makers and sellers of liquor to have forfeited their claims to respectability and decency," the pastor concluded. "More and more is this becoming the state of pub-lic opinion, and the liquor man, whether he be millionaire or bottle cleaner, is the pariah of society.'

SESSION OF TRIAL BOARD.

Mulhall Postponed. The hearing of evidence in the cases of Capt. Mathews and Lieut. Mulhall of the fourth police precinct, which was scheduled to begin at 10 o'clock this morning, was postponed by agreement of counsel and the police trial board until next Wednesday morning at the same hour. Representatives of the local union of locomotive enmen, were present in force in the first pre-cinct station at the appointed hour and, through their legal representative, Charles through their legal representative, Charles Bendheim, announced that they were ready to proceed. It is stated that Capt. Mathews and Lieut. Mulhall had requested that counsel from the office of the corporation counsel be assigned to defend them, but the request being denied Attorney James S. Easby-Smith was retained yesterday. On behalf of his clients Mr. Easby-Smith this morning stated that a brief delay would be necessary because he would be engaged before the Court of Appeals today and probably tomorrow. Objection was made by Mr. Bendheim and by several day and probably tomorrow. Objection was made by Mr. Bendhelm and by several of his witnesses, because many of them had traveled considerable distances and it was felt that a hardship would be imposed in compelling them to sacrifice their time to appear here again.

Under the procedure of the police trial board, however, Chairman Stephens stated, at least one postponement was usually allowed to meet the conventeers. lowed to meet the convenience of counsel, and it was declared that no exception could be made in this case. Chairman Stephens stated that the subpoenas previously served would stand, and that all witnesses would be required to present themselves Wednes-day without further notice.

FOUNDER OF ORDER.

Celebration at Vermont Avenue Bap-Cases of Capt. Mathews and Lieut. tist Church. At Vermont Avenue Baptist Church at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon the anniversary of William Washington Brown, founder of the United Order of True Reformers of the United States was observed.

Preaching of the twenty-fourth annual sermon to the Washington division of the order was the feature of the occasion. A gineers, who preferred the charges of large party assembled at True Reformers' neglect of duty and conduct unbecoming Hall at 1:30 o'clock and marched in a body police officers against the fourth precinct to the church, Vermont avenue between Q and R streets. On the platform were W. R. Griffin, W. P. Burrell of Richmond, Va., Maurice Rouselle, Rev. W. D. Jarvis, Rev. D. D. Johnson and Rev. George W. Lee. The program included scripture reading, by Rev. W. D. Jarvis; invocation, by Rev. Frank P. Lewis; musical selection by the choir; introduction of W. R. Griffin as master of ceremonles, by M. M. Peace; sermon by Rev. George W. Lee; musical selection by the choir; a collection for monument to W. W. Brown, and an address by Mr. W. P. Burrell of Richmond, Va.

Dr. Lee, among other things, said that the great success of the True Reformers was a sufficient proof that the race is capable of success along every line of business enterprise as well as in all of the industrial pur-suits. He said a monument should long ago have been erected to W. W. Brown, the greatest financier the race has yet produced. Mr. Burrell paid a tribute to Abraham Lincoln and then discussed the history of Brown and the organization of the United Order of True Reformers. The token for the Brown monument fund increased the local contribution to $120.28.

Revival Services in Progress. The revival services that are being conducted by Rev. J. C. Massee of Raleigh, N. C., and Rev. Weston Bruner at the Fifth Baptist Church are arousing great interest. The meetings are being attended by large crowds, which seem to increase nightly. The singing is in charge of Charles Palmer, who leads the large special choir.
